

LEARNING CONFERENCE

Climate Action: Kenya's Journey and the Path Ahead

This final StARCK+ conference is to share learning from all the ambitious work of the programme over the past five years. The major theme of the conference is innovation and investment in low carbon development and adaptation/resilience.

The two-day conference is an opportunity to share and discuss the first-hand results generated by the StARCK+ partners and the learning assignments. A key message from the overall learning is that StARCK+ provides real and compelling evidence that well placed and supported donor interventions, judiciously implemented, can deliver the elusive and much sought after 'transformational changes' that are essential to deliver the high-level commitments made around the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and in the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC).

Bringing together national government stakeholders, county representatives, StARCK+ partners and development agencies, the learning sessions will focus on discussing potential climate change pathways within government policy and governance systems.

Dates: Wed 9 - Thu 10 May 2018
